By the 2nd evening all Pemitas have arrived. Now the real fun begins. Big Sisters started the program with their skit, only to be followed by their Little Sisters in a skit. Of course, I probably shouldn't say this, but the Little Sisters were much better!

Pem's president, Linda Picton, begins the tree-trim party by putting on all the lights.

Making chains for the tree always attracts a bunch of Pemiters.

Paper Chains -

Sometimes the work gets to be too much & maybe this is why Melinda Ringer is running away - or could she be running for another reason?

This is not the Tom Hall chorus - (heaven help us). It was nice, though, to sing carols while we trimmed the tree!

Glitter Chains -

MAE here is putting a final touch of Angel Hair on the tree - Fearheiley? well she's holding the ladder - I think!!

The glitter chain was the bright idea of Kathy Wagner - see how it is blinding her...

There's always a few in the crowd who eat more than they string! Ok, Cindy + Cheryl, let's get busy now!!

...And of course, the popcorn and Cranberry Apples

And here's the finished product →

Sorry if we intrupted you, Arlene + Gary!

Christmas at Pem is a very special time. Good tidings and great joy are spread everywhere. The Christmas banquet gives Pemites a chance to honor our lovely maids - And here they are:

Evelyn Jackson Velma Lovell
Alberta Chapman Pat Carpenter Frances Daly

Prude Herber (Red)

3rd Floor presented the "chain gang" wanting a last request - to go home for Christmas. They are: Beth Magill, Joan Forman, Mary Ramsaur, Melinda Ringer, and Karen Clemet,

Karen Clemet,

Toni Becker, Saeweger, & Cheryl Johnson beg Rudolph the Red Nose Reindeer to make the trip with Santa since mama deer was expecting.

Skits are a big thing at Pem, and at Christmastime the whole dorm gets into the act. Each corridor presents a talent and here are a few pictures from the annual party.

2nd New brought Santa Claus along to help them get rid of their "Chicken Fat". Rosie Pilipowski played Santa.

The Pit, as usual, came up with a hilarious take off of "The Twelve Days of Christmas". Seen here are: Kathy Humphrey, Peg Fenner, Adele Fuchs, & Joan Salvaggio.

And Here's Miss Stuebe —

Miss Stuebe has to be one of the most efficient dorm directors on campus. Luckily, we have her here at Pem! It is only in small ways that we can repay her. So, to you Miss Stuebe, thank you & Merry Christmas.

Miss Stuebe with her Christmas gift - a music box.

"Thank you girls, you shouldn't have done this, (but I deserve every bit of it.)"

After every party there's plenty to eat & drink ...

Egg Nog & Christmas cookies went fast along with a lot of chit-chat.

And Joan Forman sang "Honey Bun" for her exhibition of talent!

Majorettes Lead Band At Halftime

By Sally Golinveaux

Eastern's first Homecoming game in 1915 included half-time entertainment consisting of "aesthetic dances" performed by the "Butterfly Girls." The 1962 Homecoming game will feature more modern entertainment during half-time with the presentation of Eastern's three majorettes.

George Westcott, who heads Eastern's marching band, chooses majorettes after fall try-outs. When the band meets, the majorettes work up the routines used at the games.

This year's majorettes are Cora Goley, Lynne Painter and Sandra Wyatt. Cora Goley, sophomore speech correction major from Dupo, was a featured twirler in the band last year.

Miss Goley, who has been twirling since she was six years old, holds membership in the National Baton Twirling Association (NBTA), has a twirling teaching certificate and judges baton contests.

Lynne Painter begins her second year of twirling with the band this fall. Miss Painter is a sophomore English major from Anchor.

She is a member of the NBTA, has participated in district and state contests and attended a Wisconsin twirling camp this summer.

Sandra Wyatt, freshman music major from Mahomet, had four years of experience as her high school's only majorette. She was an honorary majorette, has won second place in a county twirling contest and has conducted baton lessons.
