

MINOR IN MEETING AND EVENT MANAGEMENT

Meeting, convention, and event planners organize a variety of events, including weddings, educational conferences, business conventions, sporting events, and community festivals. This minor introduces students to the aspects of planning, funding, marketing and managing of meetings and events in business, corporate, and non-profit settings. The cultural, environmental, and economic impacts of meetings and events are explored, as are the ties to the hospitality and tourism industry. The United States Department of Labor projects an 11% growth rate in meeting and event planning jobs by 2025 with a median wage of about $49,000.

The Meeting And Event Management Minor requires completion of 18 semester hours. It is open to all majors, except those in the Hospitality and Tourism major.
